① Fill in the gaps. Use the grammar section of your book (p. 188-190) if you need help.

The infinitive with to is used:

1. after certain verbs (e.g. ⬚)

e.g.

⬚

2. after certain verbs + question words

e.g.

⬚

3. after ⬚ (the first, the best, the only)

e.g.

⬚

4. after want, would like, expect, ask, tell + ⬚

e.g.

⬚

With the infinitive with to you often express:

1. ⬚ and ⬚ (e.g. with want, would like, hope, decide, expect, offer, promise,...)

2. ⬚ (e.g. I'd prefer to stay home tonight)

3. efforts or attempts (e.g. try, learn, manage)

In some cases the infinitive is used without to. This happens:

1. after modal verbs (can, should, must, have to) e.g. They should trust her.

2. after let/make + object
e.g. They should let her go out with her friends.

② Fill in the gaps using the following verbs. Use the infinitive form with out without to.

meet up | take | do | calm down

1. They don't let me ⬜ anything!

2. They should ⬜ and relax - but it might ⬜ a while.

3. I hope we can ⬜ soon.
