

1 Rules and Application

Past Progressive

A verb tense used to describe ongoing or continuous actions that were happening in the past

Rule

It is formed by combining the past tense of the verb "to be" (was/were) with the present participle of the main verb (the verb ending in -ing).

Breakdown of how to form the Past Progressive

1. Subject (noun or pronoun): This is the person or thing performing the action.
2. Past tense of "to be" (was/were): Use "was" with singular subjects (I, he, she, it) and "were" with plural subjects (you, we, they).
3. Present participle of the main verb (verb + -ing): Add -ing to the base form of the main verb.

Subject+Past tense of "to be"+Present participle of the main verb

Examples

I was playing video games when the phone rang.

- In this sentence, "I" is the subject, "was" is the past tense of "to be," and "playing" is the present participle of the main verb "play." Together, they form the past progressive tense.

They were studying for their exams all night.

- In this case, "They" is the subject, "were" is the past tense of "to be," and "studying" is the present participle of the main verb "study."

[illegible]

3 Homework

① Story Telling

- Imagine a day in the life of Will during his skiing holiday in Austria. Create a short story using the past progressive tense to describe his activities throughout the day. Include details about his morning routine, skiing adventures, interactions with locals, and any other interesting events. Aim to use the past progressive tense consistently to convey the ongoing nature of the actions.

- Include details such as:

Pre-trip excitement: What were you and your family doing in the days leading up to the trip? Were you packing, shopping for ski gear, or making travel arrangements?

Arrival in Austria: Describe the initial moments upon arrival. What were you and your family doing as you settled into your accommodation and prepared for the first day of skiing?

Skiing adventures: Share your experiences on the slopes using past progressive tense. What were you doing on the first day as you got used to the skis? Were you practicing specific techniques or navigating challenging terrain?

Cultural experiences: While in Austria, what were you and your family doing to immerse yourselves in the local culture? Were you attempting to speak German, interacting with locals, or trying traditional Austrian dishes?

Memorable moments: Highlight ongoing actions or activities that stood out during the trip. Were you and your family doing something special on a particular day or enjoying a memorable meal together?

Reflections: Now that you're back, reflect on your overall holiday. What were you and your family doing as you shared stories and memories from the trip with your friends?
